-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --
Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 1 recites in the preamble "with a face plate." Further within the claim applicant claim flat face frame having strips or strings or plate. How can the face be a face plate when it is not a plate, being that strips or strings are substitutable for a plate. Clarity needed; therefore, claim 1 has been rejected. Applicant also recites in claim 1, line 5, "to give the greatest springy driving force." What is this driving force compared to in order for it to be the greatest or it "greatest" used to refer to the greatest driving force in a spot on the particular club? Clarity needed in claim. Claims 2-6 are dependent on claim 1 and therefore, have also been rejected.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Beale (USPN 890836).

Regarding claim 1, Beale discloses a golf club head with a face plate having a springy driving force of a golf club having a hollow body shell whereon its flat face plate frame is affixed with stretched strips to give the greatest springy driving force upon hitting against a golf club (See Figure 1-6).

Regarding claim 2, Beale discloses the frame made of metal to be fixed with stretched strips of a predetermined degree of tightness where affixing can be made as a single layer with the same tightness (See Entire Document and Figures 1-6).

Regarding claim 3, Beale shows the strips having a smooth surface (See Figures 1, 3 and 6).

Regarding claim 4, Beale shows the strips having a rectangular cross-section (See Figures 1, 3, and 6).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Beale (USPN 890836) in view of Sasamoto et al. (USPN 6193614).

Regarding claim 5, Beale does not disclose a coating over the face plate. Sasamoto et al. discloses having a synthetic compound coating over a face plate (See Columns 14 and 15). One having ordinary skill in the art would have found it obvious to coat with a synthetic compound the face plate of Beale, as taught by Sasamoto et al., in order to protect the face plate from abrasion and to increase the strength of the face plate.

Regarding claim 6, Beale shows a layer of support material g' with flexibility made of non-synthetic material underneath a layer of strips (See Figure 3).
